GENERAL OUTLINE OF ROYAL ACADEMY OF DANCE SYLLABI

1. Purpose and description of syllabi

As an awarding body, the Royal Academy of Dance Examinations Board offers an internationally recognised portfolio of examinations and assessments. They are designed to motivate and encourage students of all ages and levels of ability, through a systematic measurement of progress and attainment.

Students may start with the Pre-School Dance Curriculum, move up through Pre-Primary and Primary levels and then into eight Graded levels or six Vocational Graded levels. Students are guided by their teachers to move from the Graded pathway to the Vocational Graded pathway at an appropriate moment; or they may study both pathways simultaneously. In the Graded syllabi students are offered alternative options of an examination, Class Award or Presentation Class.

1.1 Pre-School Dance Curriculum

The Pre-School Dance Curriculum develops basic movement skills, musical awareness, expression and creativity. Themed classes encourage class participation, focus and confidence that prepare students for entry to the Pre-Primary levels. This curriculum is appropriate for students between the ages of two and a half and five years.

1.2 Graded Syllabi Pre-Primary and Primary levels

These syllabi develop students' physical skills, stamina, creativity, expression and musicality using a range of sounds and musical styles. This strong foundation prepares students for a successful transition to ballet and other dance genres. These levels are appropriate for students between the ages of five and eight years.

1.3 Graded Syllabi 6 levels (Grades 1 – 8 Award)

The Graded syllabi provide a broad practical dance education, progressively developing the technical, musical and performance skills of the student. They incorporate Classical Ballet, Free Movement and Character:

- Classical Ballet is the core of the syllabus
- Free Movement incorporates movements in common with dance genres such as Natural Movement, Contemporary and Classical Greek
- Character is the theatrical presentation of national dance using ethnic dance and music, which has been freely adapted for the theatre. Three styles have been selected for study: Hungarian, Russian and Polish

The Graded syllabi are appropriate for students from the age of six years.

1.4 Vocational Graded Syllabi 6 levels

(Intermediate Foundation to Solo Seal Award)

The Vocational Graded syllabi provide an in-depth study of Classical Ballet developing the technique, music and performance skills of the student. It introduces pointe work for female candidates. This highly focused and practical training education prepares students for a dance or dance related career. The Vocational Graded syllabi are appropriate for students from the age of 11 years.

SOLO SEAL AWARD SYLLABUS

1. Introduction

The Solo Seal Award examination was introduced in 1928 as an additional examination for students who had achieved the Advanced Certificate. This is the highest Vocational Graded examination of the Royal Academy of Dance and focuses on solo performance.

Candidates are required to perform three contrasting variations, which have been selected to meet the stylistic and movement demands of today's choreographers and directors.

The Solo Seal Award examination takes place in front of an invited audience and panel of judges, which normally consists of a Vocational Grades examiner and professional dancer or former dancer from a ballet company, approved by the Artistic Director of the Academy.

2. Aim

The aim of the Solo Seal Award examination is to provide students with an opportunity to achieve at a high level, and be assessed on variations performed in front of an audience.

10. Music

10.1 Names and titles of Classical Repertoire variations

Naming the 19th variations is problematic: it is well known that variations tend to move from place to place not just within a single ballet, but also from ballet to ballet, like 'suitcase arias' in opera. The published musical score of a ballet may never be played in that order in a performance. For example, the variation known almost everywhere as the Swan Lake 'Act III' variation for Siegfried is located, in the original 1877 score, in Act I. Similarly, Jean de Brienne's solo from what is often advertised as 'Raymonda Act III' - itself a one act ballet - is found in Act II in the musical score.

The variations in the Solo Seal Award are fixed versions of a fluid concept for a particular purpose. That being the case, for ease of use and reference, short names such as 'Raymonda 1' or 'Swan Lake 2' have been given to each of the variations in this volume, which correspond to those used in the Benesh Movement Notation and on the DVD. These are used to identify the variation quickly within the context of the book and the Award itself. They are not the original titles of the variations.

For the sake of interest and correspondence with other musical materials, we have included further information, where possible. For example, the Act and Scene numbers are given for the Tchaikovsky and Glazunov ballets. It is recommended, however, that the short names are used in the studio, to ensure that teacher, dancer and musician are talking about the same piece.

10.4 Tempo and timing in the Classical Repertoire Variations

Since many of the 19th century variations are in part vehicles for a display of virtuosity, tempo in these cases is greatly influenced by the particular technical strengths and physical attributes of individual dancers. It is virtually impossible to establish anything like a historically 'correct' or 'authentic' tempo, and the tempos exhibited on the Solo Seal Award DVD are largely unique and personal to the individual performers.

Nonetheless, tempo is also a key factor in the artistic interpretation of a variation, and the overall effects of choosing one tempo over another should be carefully considered. For example, to speed-up or slow down one section for the sake of comfort or showing a particular step to better advantage may have a negative effect on the overall impact and flow of the variation. If a tempo is too sluggish or too fast, it may detract from the audience's enjoyment of the dance as a whole, regardless of how excellent the dancer's movement may be.

For this reason, it is important for dancers at this level to work with live accompaniment, so that they can explore the impact of different tempi and interpretations, as well as enjoying sympathetic and supportive accompaniment at an individually appropriate tempo.
